Creating Connections Between Art Students

With the initial plan of drifting people away from their phone screens, dot is a network which creates friendships within our art academy

Art students often struggle to find like-minded peers to connect with, which can lead to feelings of isolation and hinder their artistic growth.

By filling out a questionnaire that can be found on posters on the walls, depending on your answers you are paired with your aspiring art-friend

Sign up to find a penpal/correspondence at WdKA, based on your answers we will pair you up with your perfect match

Once you've found your pair, you can find a booklet in the research station on Tuesday 25th April, that you can exchange with them without passing through social media

Why are we doing this?

We want to help make connections in an analog manner that can with our modern ways with like-minded people who want to spend less time on the phone and get more inspired by entertaining tips.

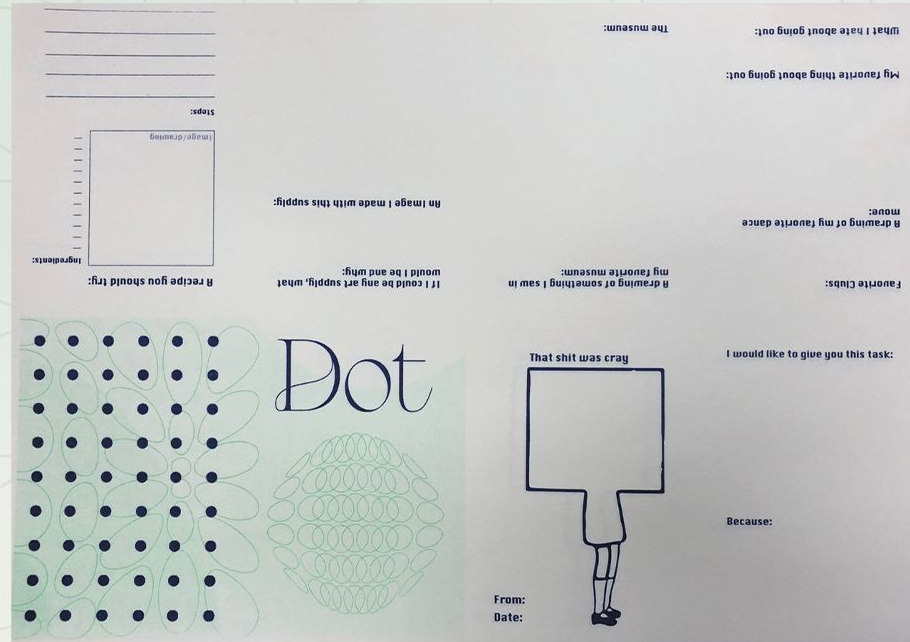

What's in the booklet?

A mini zine you can coverage with your peer by send it back and forth. It is filled with prompts, fun questions and exercises designed to help you get to know your peer and share experiences

What is your email? *

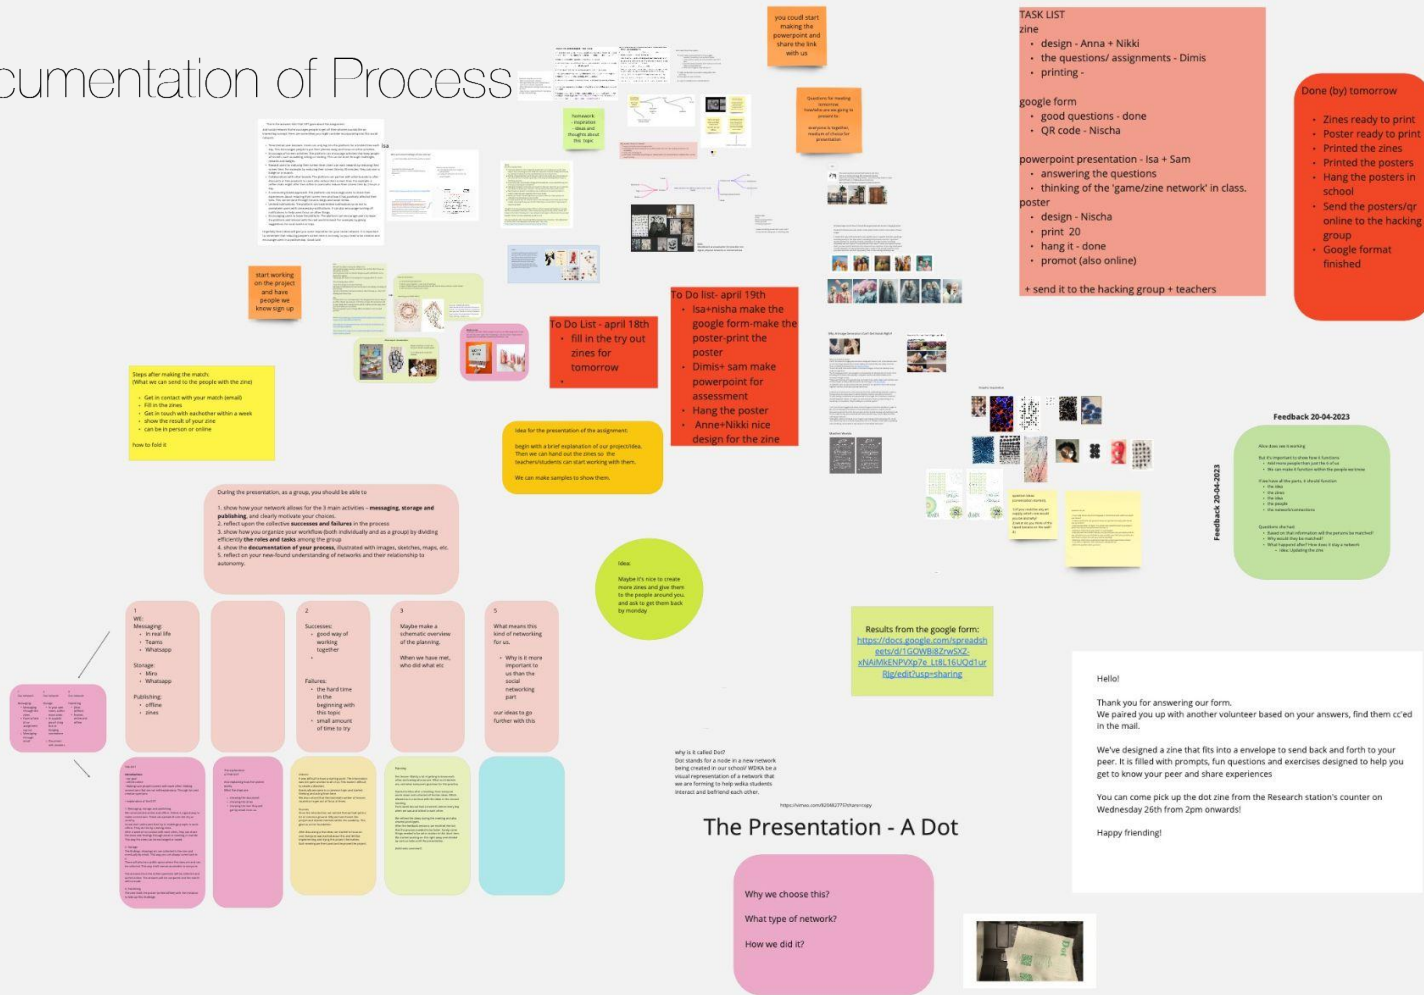

Short-answer text

You are then later informed via email on where you can find the zine that we have printed out for you & your match.

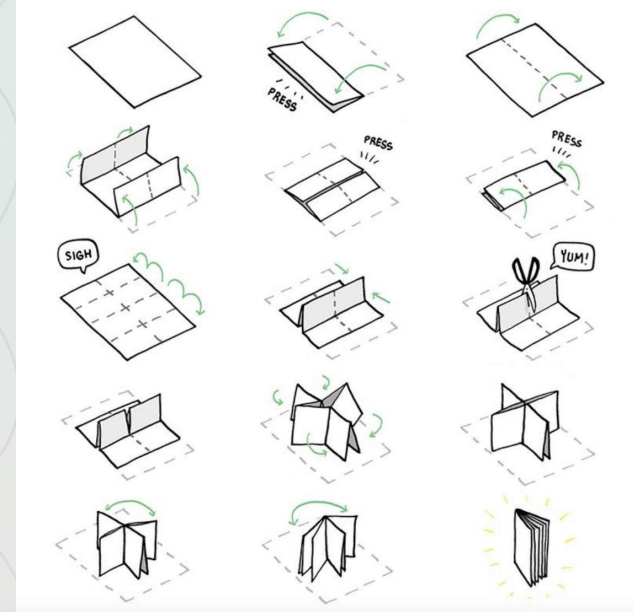

The zine is filled with fun questions, activities & recommendations that can break the ice & start the conversation for our matches.

Hello!

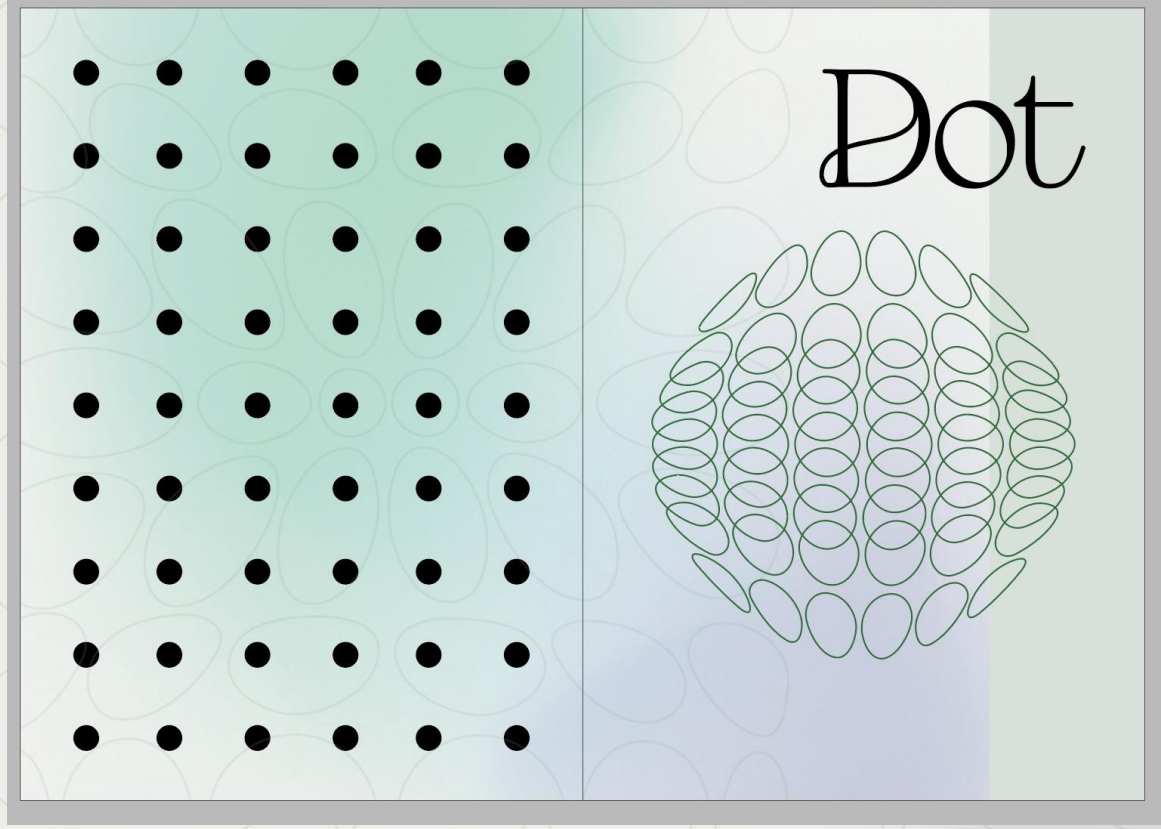

Thank you for answering our form.

We paired you up with another volunteer based on your answers, find them cc'ed in the mail.

We've designed a zine that fits into a envelope to send back and forth to your peer. It is filled with prompts, fun questions and exercises designed to help you get to know your peer and share experiences

You can come pick up the dot zine from the Research station's counter on Wednesday 26th from 2pm onwards!

Happy friending!
